CYBOTRON

In the year 2001, the design was announced of the first robot with a limited ability to think. In subsequent years, robots with increasing intelligence were designed and manufactured and were able to undertake human tasks. The human race became increasingly lazy and, little by little delegated all responsibilities, including those of design and manufacture, to the robots, thus relinquishing any further control over them.

The Robots designed and manufactured the Trons, commanded by Hulks to squash humans, the Brains with ultimate in logical mind and Armedroids, Pulsars, Enforcer Droids and Electrodes as armaments.
